About the Author

Henry Corbin (d. 1978) was professor of Islamic religion at the Sorbonne and director of the department of Iranic studies at the Institut franco-iranien in Tehran. His wide-ranging work included the first translations of Heidegger into French, studies in Swedenborg and Boehme, writings on the Grail and angelology, and definitive translations of and commentary on Persian Islamic/Sufi texts. He introduced us to such seminal terms as the 'imaginal' realm, ta'wil, and 'theophany' into Western psychospiritual thought. His published works include Creative Imagination in the Sufism of Ibn Arabi, Avicenna and the Visionary Recital, and The Man of Light in Iranian Sufism.

Philip Sherrard was a poet, translator, literary scholar, theologian and interpreter of the Orthodox tradition.

The true cornerstone of Corbin's work

By Damian Murphy

...along with, of course, his essay Mundus Imaginalis, which can be found in his book Swedenborg and Esoteric Islam. But that is merely the apertif, whereas this is the main course.

This book consists of five lectures on various aspects of Shiite hermeneutics delivered by Corbin at the Eranos Conferences in Ascona, Switzerland. The titles of the lectures are as follows:

1. The Realism and Symbolism of Colors in Shiite Cosmology
2. The Science of the Balance and the Correspondences between Worlds in Islamic Gnosis
3. Sabian Temple and Ismailism
4. The Configuration of the Temple of the Ka'abah as the Secret of Spiritual Life
5. The Imago Templi in Confrontation with Secular Norms

The spirit of the symbol is revealed in its naked splendor within the content of these essays for anybody who is open to receive it. As can be seen from the topics outlined above, this is not light reading by any means, but if you apply yourself diligently to its contents, you will be rewarded with an understanding far beyond that of the intellectual. The language of the mind pales in comparison to the language of the heart, and this book contains the linguistic keys to the heart's tongue, while pointing to an even higher means of apprehension.

By customer

Being a person of simple linguistics, I simply had to deduct one star. And this is due to the authors manner of writing. The style of writing is predominantly academic. This made it a bit difficult for me to harmonize with the flow of expression. Though the information is valuable, and well presented, it may take some of us a little longer to harmonize with the authors manner of expression.
